Exploring Our City for 66 Years

The Know Your Chicago Committee takes great pleasure in welcoming you to our 66th season of civic engagement with the Chicago community. Founded in 1948 by Mary Ward Wolkonsky, Know Your Chicago strives to foster understanding and appreciation of the complexity, diversity, and richness inherent in this great American city.

The season will begin with a day-long Symposium at Ida Noyes Hall, at the University of Chicago. Our speakers address important issues related to the season's tours and topics.

Over the years, programs have explored a wide range of issues including culture, the arts, technology, education, housing, urban renewal, and social change. Unique access to the inner workings of Chicago institutions and organizations has been a hallmark of Know Your Chicago since its inception. The Symposium and the tours are researched, planned, and implemented by the Know Your Chicago committee members, who reflect a broad spectrum of organizations, communities, and interests.

Be sure to visit our newly launched website at knowyourchicago.org where you can register for tours, keep up-to-date on the latest KYC news, peruse historical documents all the way back to the inaugural 1949 season, and view frequently asked questions.

Welcome to our 66th season!

Know Your Chicago 2014 Symposium

Join us for a day of lectures and presentations on some of the most pressing social and political concerns in the city and beyond. Regardless of whether you participate in the tours, we're sure you'll find the day's presentations interesting and thought-provoking.

Parks and More Than Recreation

In the 1830s, Chicago's emerging government adopted the motto "Urbs in horto" or "City in a Garden." While certainly places for recreation, Chicago parks are much more, enhancing quality of life and serving as safe, inviting oases. Today, Chicago has 607 parks offering a wide range of opportunities for people to enjoy every day. On this tour, gain an inside view of how several unique Chicago parks provide more than recreation.

Get a sneak peek of The 606, a park and trail system reflecting Chicago's reputation of innovation and creativity. The unused, elevated rail line which once separated four neighborhoods will string them together via trails, art installations, and landscape design—yet another way to explore and appreciate Chicago. Hear from experts about the philosophy and purpose of Chicago's green spaces and park facilities.

Explore WMS Boathouse at Clark Park, designed by Studio Gang. On the river near Addison, the boathouse is a premier training facility and one of four to be built along the banks of the city's second shoreline. Learn about Chicago Rowing Foundation, an independent organization offering programs and activities with a comprehensive approach to participants' physical, mental and social well-being—with impressive results.

Enjoy lunch overlooking the lake.

Visit Northerly Island, a 91-acre peninsula dedicated to nature that juts into Lake Michigan at the heart of the Museum Campus. Stroll the paths, explore the play areas, and enjoy a spectacular view of the Chicago skyline.

Sweet Home Chicago: Problems and Promises of Public Housing

Public Housing is one of the most controversial issues in American Cities; nowhere has this played out more dramatically than in Chicago. From high expectations and community pride to neglect and despair, public housing seemed doomed to failure. But today it is being re-envisioned with public-private partnerships, innovative design and inclusive, sustainable strategies. At stake are generations of families and Chicago's reputation as "the city that works." Join us as we learn about the surprising history, broad purpose and fascinating future of public housing in Chicago.

Participate in an urban journey along South State Street to see recent developments, including the Legends South/Savoy Square, where housing experts will explore the effectiveness of Chicago's Plan for Transformation/Plan Forward. Examine the results of this policy along the lakefront where 21st century low- and mid-rise residences defy recognition as public/affordable housing.

Observe the National Public Housing Museum, the former Jane Addams Homes, in Chicago's Little Italy Neighborhood.

Enjoy lunch at a popular bistro while leaders of this new museum discuss its evolution, progress and meaning to the community.

Explore the Julia Lathrop Homes, named for the first director of the US Children's Bureau and built by leading prairie school architects in 1938. At Lathrop's Mary Crane Boys and Girls Club, the redevelopment team will present its exciting architectural designs and concepts, including the restoration of residential units and the great lawn designed by Jens Jensen and plans for expanded Chicago River access for the larger community.

Reel Chicago

Windy City, Third Coast, City of Strong Shoulders—and now, Chicago boasts a new, well-deserved title: Hollywood by the Lake! Given the filming frenzy about town and the economic boon the television and film industry brings to Chicago, it's only fitting.

Spend the morning getting a rare look at DePaul University's Theatre School, where actors, set designers, make-up artists, and more learn their crafts. The building, designed by Cesar Pelli to be a performance space and conservatory of all theatre arts, is worth discovering. What's alive inside is remarkable. Discover why the $72 million anchor to the campus' west end is earning its reputation as the place student actors and behind-the-scenes professionals from around the globe refine their talents and launch their trades. Hear from industry experts why Chicago is the backdrop of many of your favorite shows and movies.

Move on to Cinespace at 16th and Western, the 50-acre site of what was Ryerson Steel and is now the largest soundstage outside of Hollywood. You'll enjoy lunch where the stars dine. Tour where films, TV shows, and commercials evolve from concept to screen on 18 stages and the largest soundstage outside of L.A. In the process, Chicago's West Side continues to come alive as tens of millions of dollars are spent in the city and thousands of people go to work. It's a performance worth experiencing.

Lights, camera, action, Chicago!

Transitioning: Challenging Our Understanding of Gender

Transgender: it is a subject too many of us know too little about. Yet, the term represents individuals who are everywhere among us, often hiding in plain sight, while struggling with identity and the myriad issues related to being transgender.

Join us as we explore this important subject with the help of those who are transgender, and professionals specializing in the medical, legal, social and educational issues affecting the transgender community.

Begin with an introduction to what it means to be transgender, what defines transgender individuals and how gender identification and expression differ from sexual orientation.

Discover the history of the transgender community in the United States and in Chicago, including the language used within and outside the community.

Attend a moving performance of “Transform,” the autobiographical play written and performed around the nation by Rebecca Kling, documenting her personal journey through the process of transition.

Learn about the Gender and Sex Development Program at Lurie Children’s Hospital and Chicago House’s Trans Life Center, providers of the nation’s most comprehensive services for the transgender community.

Hear from doctors, psychiatrists and psychologists, as well as legal and educational experts, who will identify and address issues involved in transitioning and living as the gender one was meant to be.

The day promises to be as emotionally touching as it is enlightening and a unique opportunity to gain an inside perspective on a little known subject.

Haiti: History, Culture, and Vodou/Voodoo

Chicago's first permanent settler, Jean Baptiste Point DuSable, was born in Haiti. More recently, Haitians have brought their religion, art and history to our Midwestern shores. The Haitian culture is rich and fascinating, but myths persist today, especially those depicted on film and in other media. The religious practice of Vodoo, more correctly called Vodou, has played an intriguing role in Haitian history but is misunderstood by non-Haitians.

Visit the small but active Haitian American Museum of Chicago (HAMOC), established to highlight Haitian culture. Founding director Elsie Hernandez will show us significant art works and explain her vision for the center. A respected historian will recount Haiti's complex and often tragic history.

Tour St. Mary's in Evanston, a well-established Catholic church, that for eighty years has actively welcomed Haitian-Americans into their congregation. Hear from a Haitian Catholic priest about their religious beliefs and practices.

Enjoy traditional dishes at Chicago's only authentic Haitian restaurant.

Experience a private guided tour of The Field Museum's exhibition, Vodou: Sacred Powers of Haiti that will have just opened. Curatorial staff of The Field Museum will describe the exhibition, and University of Chicago Scholar in Residence Leslie Balan-Gaubert will enlighten us on the intriguing history of the collection.

By day's end, we will have dispelled some of the myths, learned much about Haitian traditions and enhanced our understanding of this wonderful culture.
